THE LAND OF DREAMS

BY KALGOS

I have been rich, I've tasted fame,
I've walked amid the sweetest flowers
While one who loved me breathed my name
And love gave strength to all my powers;
But not in waking hours I've known
So much of Fortune's cheering beams
For most, alas, have come alone
Unto me in the Land of Dreams.

I have heard songs more wondrous sweet
Than earthly singers ever sung,
And language that was more complete
Than ever fell from poet's tongue;
Have listened to the eloquence
Of men who spoke on thrilling themes
With more than human art or sense
Within the misty Land of Dreams.

I've journeyed to the world's afar,
Through spaces silent, cold and drear,
And lighting on some distant star,
Have seen its beauties without fear;
But there a voice would come to me,
Borne on the starlight's gentle beams,
To tell me I was on the sea
Found only in the Land of Dreams.

I've been in oriental lands,
Have drifted down the lazy Nile,
Have walked upon the golden sands
Where Africa's sunny rivers smile;
Along the Rhine, 'mid flower and vine,
Where that old city, Bingen, gleams,
I've walked with Gretchen's hand in mine,
Both of us in the Land of Dreams.

I've flown to far off mountain peaks
Where great Sierras tower sublime,
And heard the secrets Nature speaks,
And loved her language into rhyme;
Have heard the waterfalls that leap
So softly down the mountain seams,
But only when the hand of Sleep
Has led me through the Land of Dreams.

I've been in catatylas vast,
When solid earth was rent in twain,
And from the depths there upward passed
A cry that was the cry of pain,
Have seen the mountains gleam and smoke
That like a cauldron boils and steams,
But from the vision I awoke
To know it was the Land of Dreams.

In forests deep and dark and wild,
Untroubled by the feet of men,
I've wandered as a little child,
And longed to wander there again,
Have climbed unto the cyrie high,
Where the proud eagle soars and screams,
With heart undimmed, undimmed eyes,
But only in the Land of Dreams.

Oh, Land of Shadows, dark and bright,
Sweet land beyond the Gates of Sleep,
I've often known thy pure delight,
A balm for hearts and eyes that weep;
Still let me journey in that land;
My heart this cheering pleasure deems,
Let Sleep, dear Angel, take my hand
And lead me thro' the Land of Dreams!

Progress Prose Poems

By Kalgos

Old Granger Grimes who saved his dimes and never had a holiday, some people roast, but he will boast and tell how he has thrived that way. If money's all that we can call the real measure of success we might well say he's won the day. He has enough of it, I guess. But you and I who nobly try to fill our life with better things will envy not old Grimes' lot, for he's a failure, yes, by jings. It's more than here that exalts a nation that outlives its faults and brighter shines on history's page, and I've known men who won not wealth by tricks of trade or cheating stealth, who marked the progress of the age.

WESTERN CANADA'S DAY

This has been referred to as Canada's century. In Western Canada we use no such general term. This is Western Canada's century, decade, year, month, week and day. With the passing of each twenty-four hour period, new business blocks and homes are under construction, new lines of railway have pushed on a little further, and each day is brighter than the one preceding.

There is no safer or surer investment today than lands or town lots in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. If you wish your dollars to work every Western Canadian Day call on or address

You can do great things if you only will to do them and are not afraid to put forth every effort. These that have spoken of were not afraid. They were humble men assuming no greatness, pretending to no extraordinary or supernatural powers, but facing each duty as it came to them and striving to do the thing in life given for them to do. Have they not succeeded grandly? Does not the world applaud and honor them? So may you win honor and fame, but only by doing the very best that you are capable of doing.

Many a man is a failure in life because he tries to do the thing in life that he was not cut out for. He mistakes his calling; he blunders and fails. Be sure that you have found your calling, be in love with your work, do the very best that you are capable of doing and you cannot fail. Charles Sumner, a political student and a close observer of men, once said: "No honest, earnest effort in a good cause can fail." Bear that in mind, be sure your cause is good and honest and do not yield to apparent defeat but only work the harder for success and success will come.

Be an enthusiast. No great and permanent thing was ever accomplished in this world without enthusiasm. Even cranks have their uses, but it is not necessary for you to be a crank to have enthusiasm. All great reformers have been enthusiasts. Luther King, his tobacco bottle at the devil and declared he would go to Worms even though each tile on the house tops were a devil. Savatrola was an enthusiast, John Wesley was an enthusiast. John Brown was an enthusiast, many thought him a much misguided enthusiast in his day but his work had a mighty bearing in the freedom of millions of slaves.

Don't be afraid to be in earnest. The world honors men who are in earnest, who have deep convictions and strive to carry them out in life. Be a live wire. Let the world know that you are not asleep and dreaming but alive and doing the thing that was given you to do.

Rev. J. E. F. Heald, who will fill Rev. Mr. Clydesdale's place in the pulpit at the Methodist church until Mr. Clydesdale arrives from the east to make his home here, was a visitor at Progress office last Saturday.

"What will the harvest be?" Everybody is anxious and almost everybody is hopeful. Much depends on it. Many homesteaders will be all but ruined if they do not get a crop this season. Those who took greatest pains to put in their grain properly will have greatest chance for success.

J. H. West returned Tuesday from the hospital at Medicine Hat and on Tuesday night left Carlstadt for his homestead near Coronation, where he expects to spend the summer. Mr. West, who is a teacher of alight, made many warm friends while here who will wish him well wherever he may go.

Don't be too ready to believe every evil thing you hear about your neighbors. Nobody has ever lived long in this world that did not have bad stories told about them. You may try to convince yourself that you absolutely know things that are not complimentary to your neighbor that would be very difficult to prove and in such cases you had better remain silent about them. Don't believe everything you hear, don't even believe everything you see.

The C.P.R. Dining Car Department had a rather novel idea for the commemorating of Dominion Day. On that day they presented to each guest having luncheon on the Dining Cars a very appropriate souvenir consisting of a small box tied with red, white and blue ribbon containing a maple leaf made out of native maple sugar. Enclosed with the maple leaf was a miniature flag, the emblem of the Dominion of Canada, also a slip on which was printed the words of our National Song "The Maple Leaf Forever."

PSORIASIS HOW WAS CURED

After Five Years of Suffering—
Three Doctors Failed and Said
Case Was Incurable

itching and Burning Was Terrible
Until Relief and Cure Was Effectively Obtained

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

Psoriasis is another name for chronic eczema. It is the worst form of this dreadful itching skin disease. Once eczema has reached this stage it is usually considered incurable. But here is a case which proves again the wonderful healing power of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Not only does it relieve quickly, but the resulting benefits are thorough and lasting.

Mrs. Nettie Mansory, Concord Ont., writes: "I thought it my duty to write you telling you the great benefit I received from using Dr. Chase's Ointment. For five years I suffered with what three doctors had said was incurable. I was offered a cure for $200.00 to keep my skin from itching, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over my face and neck. I was unable to work and burning was very bad. At last my brother told me about Dr. Chase's Ointment as a healer. I used it for a week and it began to do me good. I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise the ointment enough. I am sure you are at liberty to use my testimony, as I hope thereby to help others who are trying to get the name."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is sold at all dealers or by mail order. Dr. Chase, Ltd., Toronto, Ont., Limited, Toronto.

Yes, said the old fellow, but I have been at my door once, but I was out, and over since then he has sent his daughter."

THE BLESSING OF MOTHERHOOD

Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes

Motherhood is woman's highest position in life. It is the fruit of her dearest hopes and greatest desires; yet thousands of noble women through some derangement have been denied this blessing. In many homes one childless after another has been born. This is evidenced by the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes normal, healthy and contented mothers and children. It is a medicine which is genuine and truthful.

London, Ont.—"I wish to thank you for the health I received by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before my baby was born I was so ill I could not stand long or walk my distance. I feel like a new woman. I could work from morning till night up and down well. I certainly think it relieves pain at childbirth and recommends it to every woman who is pregnant. You may use this testimonial if you like. It may help some other women who are in your shoes. I have now a beautiful baby, your Compound was good and took the medicine. I have now a beautiful baby in my arms. Mrs. J. J. Hendrick, 229 Hudson St., Brooklyn, N.Y."

TO CONSERVE MOISTURE

Written by E. E. Hodes, Engineer, General Experiment Station, Fort Collins, Colorado.

It is a well known fact that ground which is kept loose on top will evaporate much more water than a soil which is packed on top. The moisture which evaporates from the soil is absolutely lost so far as the plants growing in that particular field are concerned, and if existing crops are to hold this moisture in the ground to the plant growing in the field, the thing to strive for, and will prove a benefit to the plant growing in the field.

Some years ago one of the representatives from the Agricultural College was visiting an up-to-date farmer in the country, and the farmer showed him a field of wheat which illustrated this harvesting in a remarkable manner. A storm had passed over the country and about one and a half inches of rain had fallen. It had been a dashing shower and had packed the surface of the ground considerably. The grain was from four to six inches high, and the farmer had been advised to wait for a week to prevent evaporation. He sent his horse and wagon to the field, and he went on to the harrow and dragged it diagonally across the field of wheat. At the end of the harrow the surface of the field some five or six inches. He then went around the outside of the field and saw that the grain was growing so close together that it was dragging out so much of the grain and weeds that the fact that the harrow had been used was not to be seen. He offered the farmer the harrow which he had used, and the farmer was so pleased with the result that he had been dragged diagonally across the field produced grain at least eight or ten inches higher than that on either side which had not been dragged. The farmer was so pleased with the result that he had been dragged diagonally across the field produced grain at least eight or ten inches higher than that on either side which had not been dragged.

It is simply shown that the harrow and loosening of the surface soil, even though it did destroy some of the plants, conserved the moisture and increased the yield from that field, and that this practice could be employed to advantage by all farmers.

One on the Clerk
Captain Thomas Bennet, who has a mile-long line at the famous Gloucester Beach, has written to the Delaware, South of Philadelphia, that he has been advised, as a friend of his once was.

My friend, he was, taking a walk one morning after a rain. As he trudged along he saw a man, a coal dealer, standing beside his son's car. The man was looking at the car with a look of admiration. He said to the clerk, "I would like to see that car. It is a fine one." The clerk pulled the car out.

Weight, Bill called the dealer to the clerk inside. And then, the clerk, thinking that the coal dealer had been carted on the platform, said: "Twenty-four hundred pounds." The clerk then turned to the coal dealer and said: "You are a heavy man." The coal dealer replied: "I am a heavy man, but I am not a heavy man."

A Disadvantage
While awaiting the coming of her husband, a visitor to a hotel in New York City, was holding a little girl in the drawing room. Where are your two little sisters?

One of the little girls in the drawing room. Where are your two little sisters? One of the little girls in the drawing room. Where are your two little sisters?

But what are these people doing to the fun? asked the caller. The other two men, who were not so friendly, explained that, "I can't have them—Lippincott's."

Labeled the Label
Printed on the label specially, but as she gazed at a beautiful copy of Miller's Glosses, her admiration of the work called forth enthusiastic comments. What a wonderful picture, she exclaimed. And how natural it looks.

But what are these people doing to the fun? asked the caller. The other two men, who were not so friendly, explained that, "I can't have them—Lippincott's."

JUDKINS OF PULLTIGHT

An Original Story

By Calvin Goss

In a few days after Joshua had received pay for his work a complete transformation had taken place in the exterior appearance of the young reporter and a pleasing intimacy had sprung up between Joshua and "Gauzy" who was younger than Joshua and of a sprightly fun-loving nature. In the evening the two could be seen promenading. Fourth street or listening to the city band at the fountain in the public square. Occasionally they were seen at the theatre together and the other reporters remarked the close friendship between the two. "Things went on in this way for a few months and the metamorphosis that had been wrought in Joshua was apparent to all who knew him. Once or twice Tingley had to prof him a little on the quality of his work and upon him the desire to be something in the style which had won for him so much notice. But this was precisely what Joshua did not wish to do. He had other ambitions. Tingley and Butler both understood what was the matter with the young man, and said Butler to his editor, "I was afraid of it from the first."

Joshua had been with the Bugle six months and was nearing the holiday vacation when he expected to go home.

"At Belden's one evening a few days before his departure "Gauzy" and Joshua lingered long over their steak and coffee, engaged in earnest conversation, and Joshua unburdened himself.

"Yes! Gauzy: I'm going home for the holidays, back home to Indiana, and sometimes I think it might be better for me if I didn't return to the Bugle. You have been very good to me and I might miss a lot of things, but I am kinder out of place here in the city. I wasn't cut out for it. You want me to plunge with you into its life and I feel sometimes as if I would like to, lie, sinker and all, until I get to think of Pap and Mother and Mollie Brown. Mollie's my girl back there in Pulltight, you know, and she will be glad to see me but I bet she won't like the change that has come over me. You see! Gauzy, my manners have not only been brightened up a bit and I have painfully learned to talk a little better language, but I dress better than I ever dressed up there in the country, in fact better than anybody there, unless it was Bill Thompson who was always a dude. But not much good for anything else. At Pulltight nobody ever thinks of wearing store clothes only on Sundays and special occasions. I'm afraid Mollie'll think I'm too stuck-up for her. Why just think of it, "Gauzy," I don't eat with my knife any more. When I left Pulltight to come to the city I was so green that the cows used to follow me through the pasture field like I was a walkin' bundle of fodder. I'll bet they'll think I'm a new kind of stock food now, done up in a fancy package, and don't know whether to eat me or pass me up like grandma's bull blower at John Christmas upon his home one time. But there's another thing! Gauzy, what has been troubling me, I'm aotin' after all but a country gentleman. I'll never be anything else. People have laughed at my writin' and I feel blamed if they laugh at me. They only do it because they know I am a greenhorn and what I write seems so natural. It is natural. I can't write any other way. I haven't got sense enough, and I'll stay here in the city it will be just as well as if my pen and ink will play out and then I'll be getting me to do so. You know when you rub the bloom of fuzz off of a big ripe peach you can never put it back again. I'd Butler found that he could not do it and here it is so it appeared in the Bugle.

"Pulltight ain't a big fashionable city, with electric cars, automobiles, Johnny duds and hobbleskirts. It ain't even a town with a country house and a big dell and a brass band, or a village with an eldritch inhabitant who has a lifetime license to lie, a dry goods store, a blacksmith shop and a town pump. It's just a country neighborhood and the school house is at the cross roads. It does boast of a bank, however, a sand bank of a light brown color that would furnish lovely material for all the grocery keepers from Ban to Bursheide. That is the reason, it is called Pulltight, there is so much sand in the roads that a team of horses has to pull tight to get any kind of a load anywhere in particular. The pride of Pulltight is its singular school that meets every Saturday night at the school house, and the pride of the singular school is Prof. Johnny Scott, who knows more things by rote than the National Mortgage Company. There is no other singer or musician in Buckhorn county that kin hold a candle to him. I really believe Johnny could sing the Declaration of Independence to music and sing it backwards without turning a hair. Why, that man kin sing the Doodley or Erin Go Bragh in a style that kin bring tears to your eyes. He kin sing all the parts and can sing singin' them all at once, as a fellow you ever saw. He's a human bagpipe with a mouth organ inside. I hev known Johnny for nearly twenty years and to my certain knowledge he hev all that time more the same looking fat and the same longated pride of Albert black coat with the glossy finish that it takes years to acquire. I can't swear as to how long the rest of the outfit has been in commission, but I know he always looks just the same, if not a little more so. Johnny believes in himself and takes himself seriously. You kin see that as a glance, and he loves music so well that he can't get away from it long enough to do any real hard work, besides, he never was known to sell his hands or sweat his shirt wet with secular employment. He wouldn't if he could."

"I doubt much whether he will come back, but if he does, you will find that he will be the same old Joshua. I know what his ambitions are. "Gauzy" told me something about a talk they had before Joshua went away. But if he comes back he will have conquered that longing to write like other people write, for a time at least, and will give on the best that is in him. I remember what said to him when I engaged him that he was afraid that by the time he learned to be a reporter he would be spoiled. He has been dangerously near it but I have faith in that young man."

"And so have I," said Tingley. The day after Joshua Judkins returned from his vacation he walked into the managing editor's office, sat down, receiving a kindly greeting from Butler and inquired as to how he had enjoyed his visit home, and Joshua handed him a bundle of copy and said:

"You will find some account of my trip there, I thought maybe you might want to use some of it. I don't think much of it myself, but it's the sort of stuff I write about the exposition and the people seem to like that."

Prize Winning B.C. Fruit Lands

OWNERS of five-acre fruit and poultry tract, or more, in British Columbia, should be independent for life. $20 down and $10 a month, pay for it. No interest and payments extended in case of sickness. From $100 to $1000 per acre realized by ranchmen in this famous prize-winning district, the Main Colony Land. Ideal climatic conditions, no rainy seasons as in the coast; no dry seasons or irrigation needed as in the Okanagan and Okanagan districts. See Government reports. The main lake never freezes over and breaks run the year around—see reports of other districts. I spent years in finding this ideal spot. I live there myself. I call my own fruit ranch—40 acres—"The Honeycomb Place." Send for my booklet entitled "Honeycombing." It tells you all you want to know about this great British Columbia country and there are scores of questions answered.

The new booklet, "Harris' New Method of Apple-Culture," tells you how apples can be made to come into commercial bearing the second year. The old way you had to wait five years. Where a farmer uses $1,000 he can now make $5,000 per acre. It is free if you will send me the names of ten of your friends or relatives who may be interested in buying fruit lands. I have used to over 60 people the last four months and would be pleased to send you copies of the same letters that they have written to me, which I received from those who have visited their holdings which I picked out for them.

I refund you your money if after seeing the tract I select you for one, are not satisfied with it or with the rest I have to offer. If you cannot go, write your friend with you to maintain your present position for a few years, and spend your vacation out there, I will agree to plant land and take care of it for you for five years at a small additional cost and give you a share of the profits from crops. Follow your discount of ten per cent for cash and give you a good commission in case you can secure buyers for me.

My monthly price list for wild and improved tracts will interest the most careful buyer. My next extension will be leaving Winnipeg, June 27, and I will be pleased to have you join me, find for my famous "Honeycomb Magazine," issued monthly, illustrated and full of good things about that wonderful country. $2.50 per year, or 25¢ for sample copy. A year's subscription for 20 names and addresses, written plainly, of people interested in B. C. fruit lands.

Write me at once, giving name of available reference, your nationality, amount you wish to invest, and I will forward booklet, map, etc. Address me personally at head office:

If you are going to paint that new house or barn, let me give you a guaranteed franchise. Robert Anderson Carlstadt.

He couldn't think of lowering the value of his common labor. And yet Johnny is a genial sort of fellow and everybody likes him.

I want to the Pulltight singing school last Saturday night an invited audience. I was the audience and Johnny was the singer. The rest was Johnny and the singers. The boys and girls from all over the neighborhood was there and if anybody in the state of Indiana could twist and torture and beat and coax harmony out of that discord, these Johnny Scott was Johnny on the Spot, the regular Pan of the days of mythology. Johnny spoke in a regular P. Henry style for a half hour on eighth, sixteenth, thirty-second, forty, pianissimo, quavers, semi-quavers and so forth, especially the so forth was what Johnny knew about music, past, present and on the way.

He had to stop (and in the high notes of that speech to rebuke Bill Coats for throwing a bean at the school house) at that point and to tell Tom Brown to quit "chattering" to Anna Jones and listen to what their teacher Mr. Sayre! but the way he rebuked them was like a symphony interlude from Chopin in Wagner's grand opera.

I write to you, young man, because in you lies the hope of the race. We who are growing old and have in a measure wasted our opportunities can see in you the potentialities of the future. In every great crisis man are raised up to meet that crisis, and for you there is a work out ready for your hands. It will be well for you if coming face to face with that work you shall recognize your destiny and work it out with all the power of your manhood. Edison came thus face to face with his great invention in life and he did not shrink but said, "I can and I will." Lincoln, the child of poverty and toil, with surroundings that would crush and subdue the weak, rose nobly to his life work and became the emancipator of a race. Gladstone, seeing clearly and studying deeply the political problems of his time and his empire, builded wisely from youth up to old age and became England's "grand old man."

Whatever it be, whether the political arena, the rostrum, the pulpit or the world of letters, there is a mission in life for you.

The G.P.R. Dining Car Department had a rather novel idea for the commemoration of Dominion Day. On that day they presented to each guest having luncheon on the Dining Car a very appropriate souvenir, consisting of a small box tied with red, white and blue ribbon containing a maple leaf made out of native maple sugar. Endowed with the maple leaf was a miniature flag, the emblem of the Dominion of Canada, also a slip on which was printed the words of our National Song: "The Maple Leaf Forever."

Death of George F. Coffey

Like a thunder-bolt out of a clear sky came the announcement to neighbors and friends of the accidental death of George F. Coffey. Mr. Coffey was helping his neighbor Mr. Harrison to tear down a building which had been blown over the day before. He was working on his knees at the side of the building when one side and the floor suddenly fell over on him. With almost super human effort his wife and Mr. Harrison lifted the building while Mr. Harrison pulled him out. He was suffering great agony but was conscious to the last which came six hours later. Dr. Mason was called but could do nothing except administer an opiate.

His son Chester and wife were in Calgary where they were reached by wire and arrived on the following morning. Mr. Coffey was a man of absolute integrity thoroughly respected by all who knew him and his sorrowing family have the sympathy of the entire neighborhood.

The tornado at Regina last Thursday afternoon in which the city was wrecked, millions of dollars worth of property and between thirty and thirty-five lives lost, was the worst storm that has ever visited western Canada. The storm was the result of the intense heat that had been prevailing all over the West for a week or more. It is almost impossible to estimate the amount of damage done.

Don't be too ready to believe every evil thing you hear about your neighbors. Nobody has ever lived long in this world that did not have bad stories told about them. You may try to convince yourself that you absolutely know things that are not complimentary to your neighbor that would be very difficult to prove and in such cases you had better remain silent about them. Don't believe everything you hear. Don't even believe everything you see.

Carlstadt was almost depopulated Monday, most of them spending the day at Medicine Hat. All places of business in town were closed and the day observed according to custom. Medicine Hat was alive with people and had one of the greatest celebrations that city has ever had. The parade was excellent and there were some beautifully decorated turnouts.

COMMUNICATED

An Open Letter

To the Ball Players of Carlstadt:

Carlstadt, July 3, 1912
Friends: Being a lover of all manly sport, such as base ball, etc., I went over to watch your game; Married vs. Single, last evening and enjoyed the fun, and think you have some good men; but there is one thing I took exception to; and that was the language used by some of the players. Now, boys, if you want to have a good name as a team, I advise you to cut out using expressions such as I heard last evening. I do not like to repeat them here, as they were not fit for print. I am glad to say that I did not hear the manager use anything but gentlemanly language, and in that regard you have a good example, and will win respect and patronage if you will abstain from using any expressions which are not fit for either a lady or gentleman to hear. I was glad there were no ladies present, but there were several boys, and I felt sorry that they should hear the language referred to. Hoping you will take this in the right spirit, I remain,

Your well wisher,
Visitor.

All members of the Ladies Aid are requested to meet at Mrs. Gibson's on Wednesday, July 10th, at 2 o'clock a.m. Important. Bring your quilt blocks and quilting materials.

While some of the crops have been injured by the dry weather and hot winds others are looking well and the prospects are still good for a fair yield in all kinds of grain. Gardens are generally looking well where not disturbed by gophers and potatoes give promise of a big crop.
